Four Independent Photojournalists on the War In Iraq

PHOTOGRAPHER: Thorne Anderson - NAJAF, August 27, 2004

Exhibition to be held at APHA's Annual Meeting

The American Public Health Association (APHA), Labor and Peace Caucuses invite you to attend Unembedded, a national touring photojournalistic exhibit that tells the story of impact of the war in Iraq on the lives of the Iraqi people "on the ground" where the war is being waged. The APHA exhibit will include interpretative panels about the war's effect on human health and the environment in Iraq, as well as its impact on returning American veterans, their families, and communities. (See complete details, page 2)

APHA Opening Reception for the Unembedded Exhibit:

Monday, November 5, 2007, 6 PM to 8:30 PM

Program at 7:00 PM., access until 10 PM.

Unembedded photojournalist, Kael Alford, will be the key note speaker and will present a one-hour power point presentation beginning at 7:30 PM

Exhibit Hours • Sunday November 4th to Thursday November 8th

Sunday 2 PM to 6 PM • Monday 7 AM to 10 PM • Tuesday 7 AM to 7 PM • Wednesday 7 AM to 7 PM • Thursday 7 AM to 7 PM

Location

AFL-CIO Headquarters • 815 16th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. (Cross St. "I" St. N.W.)

Wheelchair accessible • A 20-minute walk from the Convention Center • Easy to reach by public transportation

UNEMBEDDED:
Four Independent Photojournalists on the War in Iraq

APHA, and the Labor and Peace Caucuses invite your participation and support in bringing Unembedded – Four Independent Photojournalists on the War in Iraq, to Washington D.C. during APHA's 2007 Annual Meeting.

Unembedded – Four Independent Photojournalists on the War in Iraq, is a book and photography exhibition project that brings together four photojournalists who have worked extensively in Iraq. Working outside the confines of the U.S. military's official "embedding" program, the photojournalists document issues often underrepresented in the mainstream media: the insurgency as seen from inside the separate resistance movements, civilians affected by the violent battles between the U.S. and insurgent forces, and the devastating effects of civilian casualties. The book and exhibit give audiences a nuanced view of the violence in Iraq that has followed the U.S.-led invasion in 2003.

The APHA exhibition of Unembedded – Four Independent Photojournalists on the War in Iraq, was initiated by APHA members in Arkansas, who co-created with the photojournalists an exhibit in Little Rock to increase awareness about this war's horrific toll on human well-being. APHA's policy statements opposing the war bolstered support for the innovative project displayed at the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences Fay W. Boozman College of Public Health and Philander Smith College earlier this year.

Unembedded is sure to be a highlight of your trip to Washington. The exhibition is conveniently located, an easy 20 minute walk from the Convention Center. By subway, you can take the Blue Line to McPherson Square or the Red Line to Farragut North. By bus, take the "Circulator Bus" to 16th St. The bus runs directly from the convention center every 10 minutes and costs $1.

APHA, the Labor Caucus, Peace Caucus, and our colleagues in Arkansas and other volunteers are contributing their time and in-kind support to organize the exhibit. However, we need to raise funds to pay for the loan, transportation, security, and display of the exhibit and for the opening reception. Contribution to help defray the costs of the exhibition are greatly needed. Please see page 7 of this newsletter to learn how you can contribute to bringing these images of the war to broad public attention.

We hope to see you at the APHA Opening Reception for Unembedded!

Your Voice Counts! Support the Proposed APHA Policy Statement:

Opposition to U.S. Attack on Iran

Robert Gould, MD, Chair, Peace Caucus

As the drumbeat for an attack on Iran sounds, the U.S. is simultaneously spending over $275 million every day for the war in Iraq. The war in Iraq has already cost the lives of over 3,800 U.S. soldiers and from 50,000 to potentially over a million Iraqi civilians. Your support is needed to ensure APHA does its part to weigh-in on preventing a widening of the present conflict in the Mideast that would have further disastrous effects for global public health.

In November, a policy statement "Opposition to U.S. Attack on Iran" will be considered by the APHA Governing Council at the annual meeting (see below for complete text of the proposed policy statement). An outpouring of support of over 100 APHA members who signed a letter to the Executive Board this Fall was critical to providing the opportunity for this policy statement to be considered. On behalf of the Peace Caucus, I want to thank all the signatories for their essential contribution to this effort.

There is still much to be done to ensure that APHA speaks out on this issue.

If you are a member of the Governing Council, please support the passage of this policy statement when it comes up for a vote.

If you are not a member of the Governing Council you can:

- Voice your support of the policy statement at the APHA Public Hearings on proposed policies. (The Public Hearings will take place on Sunday, Nov. 4th, between 3:30-6:00 PM at the Washington Convention Center. Please check the program for the exact location;
- Seek out your Governing Council representatives and ask them to vote in favor of the policy statement;
- Speak in support of the policy statement at your Section meetings;
- Let your colleagues know what they can do to ensure APHA takes a strong anti-war position.

Please contact me at rmgould1@yahoo.com if you would like more information. Thank you, Bob Gould

Proposed policy statement: Opposition to U.S. Attack on Iran

The American Public Health Association,

Recalling policy statements approved by the American Public Health Association (APHA) Governing Council opposing war in the Middle East (1)(2); and

Noting that Iran has continued work on nuclear enrichment programs that raise concerns about its intention to develop nuclear weapons, in violation of the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT) (3); and,

Observing, that in violation of its own NPT obligations, the U.S. government is developing plans to design and deploy refurbished or replacement warheads for the U.S. nuclear stockpile, and by 2030 to modernize the production complex to be able to produce new generations of weapons with different or modified capabilities, at an estimated cost of hundreds of billions of dollars (4); and,

Noting that recent credible reports indicate the possibility that the U.S. may launch an attack on alleged Iranian nuclear facilities, including the possible use of nuclear weapons (5)(6); and,

Recognizing that even a conventional military attack on nuclear facilities could lead to significant morbidity and mortality among neighboring civilian populations, while recent reports estimate up to millions of casualties in Iran and neighboring nations if nuclear weapons were used (7)(8); with possible region-wide conflict with potential massive death and destruction; and,

Understanding that the fiscal costs of a war in Iran, coming on top of the present and future costs of the current military conflict in Iraq represent resources that could better be used to address current and future domestic and global public health and environmental health needs (9);

Therefore, APHA calls on the U.S. government to:

1. Clearly state that it will not launch a military attack on Iranian nuclear facilities and explicitly rule out any possible use of nuclear weapons against Iran; and,
2. Vigorously pursue United Nations-authorized diplomatic initiatives to guarantee Iranian compliance with its NPT obligations not to develop nuclear weapons, while halting current U.S. plans to develop and deploy nuclear weapons; and,
3. Explicitly reaffirm its historical commitment to international treaties aimed at curbing the development and proliferation of nuclear weapons and all other weapons of mass destruction.

AGENT ORANGE AND PUBLIC HEALTH

By Susan M. Schnall, RN, FACHE

It has been about thirty years since the United States pulled its military troops out of Vietnam and today we as a nation are deep into another senseless intervention in Iraq. We note the similarities with a sense of terrible sadness and almost hopelessness with the repetition of the slaughter and carnage. Although we Americans would like to believe that the damage from the Vietnam War has ended, please take time to read the proposed APHA policy statement on Agent Orange (see side bar) and understand that it has not, and that both American veterans of the Vietnam War and the Vietnamese continue to suffer the effects of our government's Agent Orange spraying. I urge you to join the Vietnam Caucus and Peace Caucus in supporting this policy statement at APHA's annual meeting.

The Vietnam Agent Orange Relief and Responsibility Campaign includes U.S. veterans and Vietnamese who are working to obtain just compensation for the Vietnamese who suffered and continue to suffer from the use of these defoliants. We feel that our government and those companies that produced these defoliants have a moral and legal obligation under international law to recompense the people of Vietnam for the devastating impact of Agent Orange.

The Vietnam Agent Orange Relief and Responsibility Campaign is organizing a tour for Dr. Nguyen Thi Ngoc Phuong, the internationally known physician and director of the Tu Du Hospital in Ho Chi Minh City to speak to the public health community about the long lasting impact on the health and well being of the Vietnamese from the spraying of the herbicides. If you would be interested in having Dr. Phuong speak to your organization or at your school, please contact: Susan Schnall at susanschnall@msn.com. Please check out our website at: www.vn-agentorange.org for additional information.

Proposed 2007 APHA Policy Statement On Agent Orange

It is estimated that between 1961 and 1971 about 77 million litres of herbicides, including 49.3 million litres of Agent Orange containing more than 360 kg of dioxin contaminated defoliants were sprayed multiple times over 5.5 million acres in south Vietnam; (1) and

Research studies show elevated TCDD from dioxin in the Vietnamese, in sediment, in soil, in wildlife, and in food in some areas of south Vietnam only, thus showing Agent Orange contamination (4,6); and

Dioxins are known to be risk factors for cancer, immune deficiency, reproductive and developmental disorders, central nervous system and peripheral nervous system effects (2,3,5); and

Studies conducted by the international scientific community show the association between exposure to the herbicides and health outcomes including cancer, reproductive illnesses, immune deficiency, endocrine deficiencies, nervous system damage, and other ill effects and possible developmental disabilities and emotional problems in children; (3,5,7) and

Those negatively impacted may include children born to parents who were sprayed directly (3); and

Current conditions which are recognized by the Veterans Administration as service connected to Agent Orange exposure include: soft tissue sarcoma, chloracne, Hodgkins Disease, Multiple myeloma, Non-Hodgkin's lymphoma, Acute and subacute peripheral neuropathy, porphyria cutanea tarda, prostate cancer, respiratory cancers, chronic lymphocytic leukemia, diabetes type 2, and spina bifida in the children of veterans; (7,8) and

In a GAO study of 2004-2005 involving the payout to160,000 veterans with the four most common illnesses of approximately $1.52 billion in disability payments and $56 million for medical costs per year; (9) and

A large number of Vietnamese combatants and civilians were directly exposed to the herbicides by direct spraying, many more were exposed through contact with the environment and food that were contaminated; (4,6) and

Residues from herbicides that were transported, loaded and stored at or near U.S. Air Force bases in Vietnam and the spraying of Agent Orange by helicopters, backpacks, and Naval spraying in other locations as well have led to the contamination of the environment and food in the surrounding areas, resulting in exposure to herbicides by civilians that continues today (2,4,6); and

In spite of the above scientific studies which correlate the incidence of illness with Agent Orange, the involved chemical companies continue to maintain that there is no scientific proof that the Agent Orange causes disease.

Recognizing that since the passage in 1991 of APHA Policy Number 9124 entitled: Continuing Consequences of the Vietnam War progress has been made in significant areas such as ending the trade embargo of Vietnam and developing legislation to address some of the psychological and physical health effects of war on American veterans of the Vietnam War and their families there still remain outstanding issues to be addressed.

Therefore, APHA:

Recommends that President Bush direct the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to continue to address the enduring psychological and physical health effects of war on American veterans of the Vietnam War and their families;

Recommends federal support for research and active involvement of schools of public health, medicine, and dentistry for the study of the health consequences of the Vietnam War on all participants, including the effects of Agent Orange;

Recommends compensation from the United States government and involved chemical companies to the harmed Vietnamese to cover: services for the disabled in areas where dioxin victims are concentrated; provision of medical services and nursing services for those harmed by Agent Orange; development of community support organizations, including health care and educational and chronic care services and medical equipment to care for those harmed; including additional services as they are identified; and

Recommends continuing collegial exchange between US organizations, agencies and organizations in both the public and private sector and their counterparts in Vietnam to improve the health of the Vietnamese people and the US Vietnam veterans and their families.

Recommends that the United States government and the involved chemical companies be responsible to remediate those areas in Vietnam which still contain high levels of dioxin.

Updated War and Public Health Release at APHA

The second edition of War and Public Health updates the first edition, published 11 years ago. The new edition adds chapters on issues including the Iraq War and other armed conflicts, mental health, detainees and torture, and a public health approach to preventing the health consequences of war. The new edition will be available at the APHA Annual Meeting at the Oxford University Press booth and at the Everything APHA area. It can also be ordered through www.oup.com and www.apha.org.
